Notes for Cornelius W DYSART:

General Notes:

"C. W. Dysart, a prosperous farmer of Granville township, was born January 22, 1847, on the farm which is yet his home. His parents were A. P. and Hannah J. (Hawthorne) Dysart. The father was born in Pennsylvania in September, 1808, and the mother's birth occurred in Ohio. The Dysart family is of Scotch descent, and early records give an account of the emigration to America of the first representatives of the name in the new world about 1684.

In 1838 A. P. Dysart, coming by way of the lakes, arrived at Chicago, where he purchased a horse and saddle and thence journeyed to Peru, Illinois. There his horse and saddle were stolen from him and he walked the remaining distance to Granville. He purchased fifty acres of land just south of the village, after which he went to Hennepin and then down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and up the Ohio river to Pittsburg, whence he journeyed to his old home in Pennsylvania. He afterward made the trip across the country with teams to Illinois, driving four horses to a wagon and carrying with him tools and other effects. He then began farming on his own land and performed the arduous task of developing new fields. In those days it was customary to ride the near horse of the rear team and to drive all with a single line, and it was in this way that Mr. Dysart traveled across the country to his new home. The land which he purchased had been partially broken but there were no buildings upon it. He erected a log house and barn and made a home there until 1845, when he sold the property and purchased eighty acres on section 15, Granville township the farm now occupied by his son, C. W. Dysart. Upon this place the father continued to reside until 1874, when he removed to Virginia, where his death occurred. His first wife died in 1854, at the age of twenty-nine years, and he afterward wedded Miss Hannah Orr, a native of Ireland, who died in Kansas about six years ago. A. P. Dysart had only a common-school education, but was a great reader, a ready accountant and a well informed man on events of local and national importance. In his religious belief he was a Presbyterian. His political support was given to the whig party and later he became a republican. He took a prominent part in the affairs of the township and county and served as highway commissioner for twenty years.

In the family were ten children, of whom nine are now living: Margaret, the wife of A. E. Baird, a resident of Missouri; Susan, the wife of B. W. Cook, who is living in California; C. W., of this review; Hannah, the wife of J. H. Salisbury, of Tonica, Illinois; and Jennie, the wife of John Hawthorne, of Kansas. The above were all born of the father's first marriage. The children of the second marriage were Belle, the wife of James Elkins, of Kansas; Jessie, who died at the age of twenty-two years; Helen, the wife of John Croxen, of Arkansas ; Amanda, the wife of William Jones, a minister of the Presbyterian church in California; and Olive, the wife of J. C. Jones, of Kansas.

C. W. Dysart made his home on the farm with his parents in the days of his boyhood and youth and acquiring his education in the schools of Granville, devoting his time and energies to the work of the schoolroom, the pleasures of the playground and the tasks which were assigned him in connection with the cultivation of his father's farm. At the age of twenty-three years he was married to Miss Mary E. Heywood, a native of Maine and a daughter of John and Sarah (Folsom) Heywood. She survived until 1899 and died at the age of fifty years lacking one month. Unto Mr. and Mrs. Dysart have been born nine children, all of whom are yet living: Hannah, the wife of E. F. Foley, of Iowa; A. H., who wedded Mary Crick and is a groceryman of Granville; Lucy, the wife of A. M. McCormick, a resident of Iowa; J. W., who married Myrtle McClary and is also of Iowa; John, who completed a four years' course at the Champaign university and is at home; L. C., Charles, H. L. and Benjamin, who are also with their father. In 1902 Mr. Dysart was again married, his second union being with Miss Nira Burnham, a native of Putnam county.

After his first marriage Mr. Dysart engaged in farming on his father's land. He was the only son and has always remained upon the old homestead. At the death of his father he came into possession of the farm, which comprises two hundred acres of rich land. He has carried on improvements inaugurated by his father and has a nice country home and good farm, the fields returning to him golden harvests as a reward for the care and labor he bestows upon them. For many years several thousand rails were used in fencing the farm, and only a few years ago Mr. Dysart burned the last one. Large cottonwood trees are abundant on the place, having been planted by his father. The railroad has cut off twelve and a half acres of his land, leaving the farm a tract of one hundred and eighty-seven and a half acres. Throughout his entire life Mr. Dysart has carried on general agricultural pursuits, and his labors have been attended with a measure of success that shows that he has kept in touch with the spirit of modern progress as manifest along agricultural lines.

For years he has been a member of the Congregational church at Granville. In politics he has always been a republican, casting his first vote for U. S. Grant. He served for three years as supervisor of his township and for nine years as assessor, and is recognized as one of the leading representatives of the party in this locality, his opinions frequently proving a decisive factor in its councils. He is now a member of the county central committee and does all in his power to secure legitimate republican successes. A pleasant, genial gentleman, he makes friends wherever he goes and is recognized as a public-spirited citizen whose labors in behalf of the county have been far-reaching and beneficial. " 1907 Past & Present

"This community was shocked when it was learned that C. W. Dysart had passed away an[on] Saturday evening, Feb. 4, 1911, about 6:30 o'clock, as few persons knew that he was in a critical condition, for he had been ill only about a week. The cause of death was conjection of the bowels. Mr. Dysart was a prosperous farmer and was born Jan. 22, 1847, on the farm where he has always resided. His parents were A. P. and Hannah J. (Hawthorne) Dysart. The Dysart family is of Scotch descent. At the age of 23 years Mr. Dysart was married to Miss Mary E. Heywood, a native of Maine, who survived until April, 1899. To this union nine children were born and are as follows: Hannah, the wife of E. F. Foley, of Eddyville, Iowa; A. H., of Granville; Lucy, the wife of A. M. McCormick, of Tipton, Ia.; J. W., of Jefferson, Ia.; John, who with his wife, will leave soon for the mission fields in South Africa; Leslie C., Charles, Howard L. and Benjamin, of Granville. All are married except Charles and Benjamin. On March 6, 1902, Mr. Dysart was married to Miss Nira Burnham, of Hennepin, who survives him.

Throughout his entire life Mr. Dysart carried on general agricultural pursuits. In politics he was always a republican, casting his first vote for U. S. Grant. He served for three years as supervisor of his township and for nine years as assessor and was recognized as one of the leading representatives of the party in this locality. At the time of his death he was a deacon and the treasurer of the Congregational church and a school trustee. He was a pleasant man and made friends wherever he went. Funeral services will be held at the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock."

Mary Elizabeth HEYWOOD daughter of John C HEYWOOD and Sarah FOLSOM was born on 20 May 1849 in Maine, USA. She died on 06 Apr 1899 in Granville, Putnam, Illinois, USA.

Notes for Mary Elizabeth HEYWOOD:

General Notes:

Granville - April 10

Mortuary

Again this week it becomes our sad duty to announce the death of one of our members, Mrs. C. W. Dysart, whose illness was mentioned last week, was called home after the mid-day hour Thursday, April 6. She was surrounded by all the members of her family, with two exceptions, Mrs. Hannah Foley who resides in Indiana, and her son who has spent the winter with his aunt in Iowa. The had been summoned and also her sister Miss Lucy Heywood, but arrived an hour too late to see their mother and sister before her eyelids closed in death.

The funeral services were held at the Congregational church in Granville, Saturday morning, April 8 at 10:30 o'clock. They were conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Evans and Rev. Robert Seaman, of Watseka, Ill. The latter is an intimate friend of the family, having been reared in the same household with Mr. Dysart. Mrs. Dysart's brother, John Heywood, of Iowa, and her five oldest sons, acted as pall bearers, tenderly carrying her to her last resting place in the Granville cemetery. Loving hands and hearts sent flowers, among them was a large wreath of the Ladies Aid society, of which she has been from the first a willing and useful worker. The following obituary was written by Rev. Seaman and read at the funeral service: We, indeed, feel the the "community has lost one whose heart was full of charity to all, and the church a faithful and devoted member."

Mary E., daughter of John and Sarah Heywood, was born in Dexter, Me., May 20, 1849, and died at her late residence near Granville, Ill., April 6, 1899, in the fiftieth year of her earthly life. January 20, 1876, she was united in marriage to Cornelius W. Dysart, with whom for more than 29 years she shared in the joys and responsibilities of a happily wedded life, and left the heritage of a genuine Christian life as an inspiration to the loves ones, who morn her departure [text omitted] and when the final summons came she entertained no fear for "The Angel of the Covenant had come, and faithful to his promise stood prepared to walk with her through Death's dark veil". She passed away as sets the morning star, that goes not down behind the darkened sky, but fades away into the glorious light of heaven. In her departure the church has lost one of its most faithful and devoted member and the community, a friend whose heart was full of charity to all. But most of all will she be missed within the sacred precincts of home life, where her daily ministrations of love and self-sacrifices contributed to the comfort and happiness of these whom she so dearly loved. She has entered into full possession of that beautiful rest that remaineth for the people of God.

General Notes:

Donald Norman Dysart, 89, of Temple, Texas peacefully passed from this life at his home in the presence of his family on March 16, 2012 to join his Lord and Savior and loved ones who have gone before him. Don was born January 13, 1923 in Mt. Silinda [now Mt. Selinda], Southern Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe), South Africa to John Paden and Matilda Thorson Dysart, dedicated Missionaries of the Congregational Church.

Don was a graduate of The State University of Iowa College of Medicine and served in the U.S. Navy Medical Corps during WWII. He completed a radiology residency at Scott White Clinic and Hospital and remained on staff until his retirement in 1988. Don also served on staff at Santa Fe Memorial Hospital in Temple, the Olin E. Teague Veterans Center in Temple, and St. Edward-Rischar Memorial Hospital in Cameron. He was an Associate Professor in Radiology at Texas A&M University, College of Medicine after Scott & White's association with that school. In 1987 he was a recipient of The Gold Medical Award of the Texas Radiological Society, this organization's highest honor, a meritorious award to honor dedicated radiologists who have distinguished themselves by their services to radiology and radiologists of Texas.

He was preceded in death by his parents and his beloved wife Patricia Ann Roberts Dysart [and twin half-brothers in their infancy, Cornelius F. Dysart, and John Fox Dysart]. He is survived by three daughters: Ann Dysart Edmondson with husband Doug of Morgan's Point, Sandra Dysart Butts with husband Mike of Temple, TX, Lucy Dysart McClean of Midlothian, TX; one son John Andrew (Andy) Dysart with wife Nancy of Cypress, TX; ten grandchildren: Aaron Edmondson, Courtney Edmondson with wife Hillary, Jennifer Butts Bass with husband Shawn, Kristen Butts Griffith with husband Lee, Carolyn Butts, Mattie McClean, Mindy McClean, Ben Dysart, Kate Dysart, and Matt Dysart; six great-grandchildren; one niece Trudy Boyd of San Francisco, CA; and numerous cousins.

The family wishes to thank Dr. Daniel Smith and his staff for their compassionate medical care over the years, and Dr. Duc Vu, Dr. Michael Moffit, Katrina Abernathy and Val Richards with Scott & White Hospice for their support and tender care during his last days.
